- In 1892, Louisiana had a law saying that blacks and whites could not share the same railway cars.
- A man named Homer Plessy was jailed for sitting in the "Whites Only" section of the East Louisiana Railroad.
- Plessy was seven-eighths white and one-eighth black.

Homer Plessy

Plessy V. Ferguson

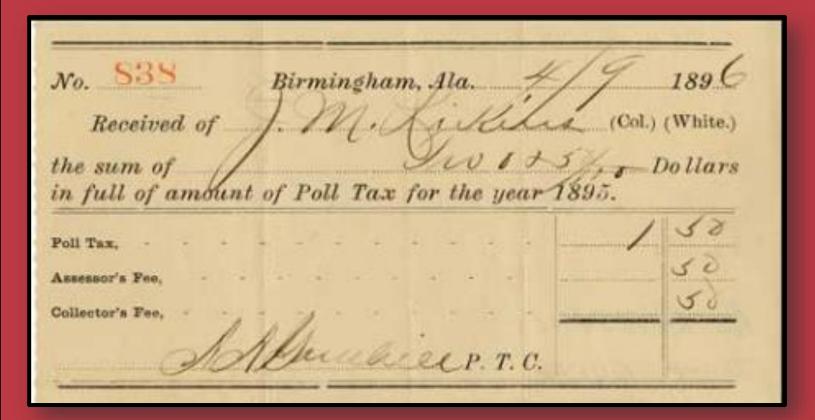

- Plessy took his case to court, saying that his rights under the 13th and 14th Amendments had been violated.
 - He sued all the way to the Supreme Court, where they ruled against Plessy.
- The Court ruled that segregation was constitutional as long as African American facilities are equal to whites' facilities.
- The case upheld Jim Crow laws and established a legal doctrine known as "separate but equal".

Disenfranchisement

- Although the Fifteenth Amendment protected black men's right to vote, many southern whites came up with ways to keep blacks from voting.
- By 1900, disenfranchisement, or blocking the black vote, was almost complete.

Disenfranchisement

- Some legislatures passed a poll tax, which required voters to pay money before they could vote.
 - Many African-Americans were too poor to pay the tax and could not vote.
- Literacy test laws required voters to be able to read a passage before voting.
 - At the time, about half of African-Americans could not read so they could not vote.

- The students will write down all the facts that they've learned about Jim Crow Laws ALL over the wall.
- · Next, they will switch papers with a partner.
- They will read their partner's wall and respond with their thoughts and feelings about the information.
- *Have the students use different colors so it looks like real graffiti!

Directions: Write down everything that you've learned about Jim Crow Laws ALL over the wall. Afterwards, switch papers with a partner. Read your partner's wall and respond with your thoughts and feelings about the information. Use different colors so it looks like real graffiti!

Teacher Info - A Violation of Rights

 Have the students write a letter from the perspective of Homer Plessy after being arrested for sitting in the "Whites Only" section of the train.

• The students should think about why Plessy believed that the arrest violated his rights under the 13th and 14th Amendments when writing the letter.

A Violetion of Rights

Directions: Imagine that you are Homer Plessy and you are in jail after being arrested in Louisiana. Write a letter to your friend that explains why you plan to challenge the arrest in court. Be sure to include information about the 13th and 14th Amendments in your letter to explain why your rights have been violated.

Teacher Directions - The Award Goes To...

- Have the students create an award for a person from this unit.
- They should create a design for the trophy and write a speech about why the person is being honored with the award and what he did to earn this recognition.
- Example "Hardest Worker" award goes to Lugenia Burns Hope. And the speech would be about how she worked hard to bring positive changes to the lives of African Americans in Atlanta.

The Award Goes To...

Directions: Choose one of the people from this unit that you think deserves an award. Create the award and design the trophy. Next, write a speech about why the person is being honored with the award and what he (or she) did to earn this recognition.
